Temporary Access for Pearson MyMathLab.

Features

• Temporary access option is available through the standard registration interface.
• Students receive up to three emails with instructions for changing their temporary access to full access. These emails include a link into the payment screens.
• Payment uses the same screens the student encountered when obtaining temporary access, making the experience familiar and easy to complete. Payment can be made with an access code, credit card or PayPal.
• Any student who does not pay for full access prior to temporary access expiration will be listed in your course roster as inactive.
• Course work submitted by students prior to temporary access expiration is not lost. Once payment is made, students regain access to all their work.

www.pearsonhighered.com

TEMPORARY CODE TRANSFER to PURCHASED CODE:

To get full access to your MyLab / Mastering course after enrolling with temporary access, you must use an access code, a credit card or a PayPal account.

Email Link Instructions You should have received at least one email containing a payment link.

• Click the payment link in the email.
• Verify the course information.
• Enter your password and click Sign In.
• To use an access code you already purchased, click Access Code. Enter your access code in the boxes, and click Finish.
• To use a credit card or PayPal account, click the button for the access you want to purchase.
  o Enter the payment information, review your order then click Finish.
• Print the Confirmation & Summary. You now have full access to your instructor's online course. Click Go to Your Course to continue your work.

Web Site Instructions If you cannot access your email:

2. In the Register area, click Student.
3. Enter your current Course ID then click Continue.
4. Verify the course information.
5. Enter your username and password then click Sign In.
6. To use an access code you already purchased, click Access Code. Enter your access code in the boxes then click Finish.
7. To use a credit card or PayPal account, click the button for the access you want to purchase.
  o Enter payment information, review your order then click Finish.
8. Print the Confirmation & Summary. You now have full access to your instructor's online course. Click Go to Your Course to continue your work.